

Shannen Camp is an apprentice funeral director and mortuary science student at Salt Lake Community College. A devoted mother of three, she's passionate about compassionate, respectful care in death work and is committed to showing her children the value of hard work and education. She feels honored to support families during life's most tender moments and hopes to specialize in infant and child cases in her career.